

1980

1989

“AIRPORT FOR SALE” AND COMMUNITY SUPPORT

King Air

1980s King Air flies over campus. The airport is third busiest in Ohio. Some neighbors are concerned about noise and pilots are asked to use noise abatement procedures.

Artais weather-check system is donated to the airport, providing meteorological data 24 hours a day including airport identification, time, wind speed and direction, temperature, dew point, altimeter setting and density altitude.

University trustees ban scheduled airlines at KOSU.

Stacy Weislogel

Airport Director: 1982-1983
Engineering Associate Dean: 1990-2006
Interim Dean: 1992
Professor Emeritus of Aviation: 2006-present

Kenneth Newstrom

Airport Manager: 1963-66
Assistant Director: 1966-83
Director: 1983-98

Airport Development Advisory Committee considers moving flight education to Bolton Field.

Airport for sale: University officials discuss selling the airport in 1986 and explore moving agricultural and aviation programs elsewhere. The cartoon depicts President Edward H. Jennings as King Kong, taking over the airport to sell it to developers (Suburban News). FAA opposes the plan. Discussion of selling the airport continues for decades.

350 flight students per year plus
150 continuing education students.

1980

1981

1982

1983

1984

1986

1987

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY
AIRPORT